School Board Settles English Teacher Muddle.

Committee of Citizens Will Consider the Position and Choose an Instructor.

MISS CARRIE HAM IN MUSIC

Arbitration of the controversy over the English position was decided at a called meeting of the school board last night. The arbitration board will be composed of ten citizens, five being selected by each faction in the deadlock. These ten men are to select an eleventh man if they can reach no agreement. The board selected:

James M. Lang, C. M. Leake, Dr. J. R. Coleman, Capt. E. Farley, Arch Sutherland, E. G. Boone, Dr. J. G. Brooks, Joe Potter, J. J. Dorrian, J. G. Miller.

The arbitrators were selected by Mr. Walston for the members desiring a new teacher in English and Mr. Beckenbach selected for the other six members. Both consulted with their supporters before making the selection. The first five were selected by Mr. Walston, the others by Mr. Beckenbach.

Five propositions were made by Mr. Walston for arbitration, the board deciding upon the fifth. They were:

1. A committee of all former school trustees in the last five years.
2. A committee of the school board in office when the city became second class.
3. A committee of former school board trustees five selected by one side and five by the other.
4. A committee of all living ex-chairmen of the school board.
5. A committee of ten reputable citizens, if an eleventh man is necessary, to be selected by the committee.

After having unlocked on the English position, the board dead-locked again over the position of music teacher, but Miss Carrie Ham was elected to that position over Miss Emma Acker on the second ballot, vote 5 to 4.

The motion for arbitration was made the first thing in the meeting by Mr. Walston, who said his side had fallen in with the idea of arbitration held by the other side. But it was at 10:25 o'clock before his motion which had lost by the usual tie vote, was reconsidered on a motion by Mr. Beckenbach, and the solution agreed upon. Mr. Beckenbach defeated the motion for arbitration early in the evening in order that other propositions might come before the board, and not because he had abandoned that idea.

The next most important proposition for a solution was offered by Dr. Troutman at the request of Mr. Beckenbach. It was that the chairman of the committee on examinations and course of study, Dr. Troutman, should recommend Miss Morgan for a principalship, if Supt. Lieb would recommend her for that position. A substitute motion was made to allow the chairman of that committee to speak. The substitute motion was lost.

Some of the members wanted to settle the arbitration motion immediately, and in the contest over this question, both Mr. Beckenbach and Dr. Troutman reversed their expressed determinations and voted with their sides, causing the motion to be lost by a tie vote. Both members explained to the satisfaction of the board why they changed their attitudes.

On a vote to sustain the original motion of resorting to arbitration the motion was lost by a vote of six and six.

Then Dr. Troutman introduced a motion to elect Miss Morgan to a principalship, if she should be recommended by Supt. Lieb for that position.

After discussion on the motion it was carried by a vote of 8 to 5, Trustees Pitcher and Troutman voting with the affirmative. There was much warm discussion on the motion before it was carried, occupying most of the board's time. Dr. Williamson thought that Supt. Lieb, having made his recommendations once, and Miss Morgan not being in those recommendations, could not back down on his stand and recommend her for a principalship. Dr. Troutman said he made his motion with the under-

PRaise FOR PURE FOOD LAW.

Pharmaceutical Association Sees a Great Gain in General.

Indianapolis, Sept. 8.—That the pure food and pure drug laws recently enacted would prove a great benefit to manufacturers, pharmacists and the public was the view expressed in the report of the committee on food adulteration read before the American Pharmaceutical Association today. The Ebert prize was awarded to James O. Schlattenbeck, of the University of Michigan.

THREE MEN

IN A BOAT TRY TO STEAL GASOLINE LAUNCH.

Row Up in Skiff and Cast Off Lines but Are Driven Away by the Watchman.

Barges have been cut loose that river thieves might steal the rope mooring them to the shore, but the boldest theft attempted is the theft of a gasoline launch twice the size of a skiff, which the thieves used in the attempt.

Arthur Rippey and Philip Gynn, local Illinois Central car repairers, own a small gasoline launch. It has not been named and was moored at the St. Bernard Coal company's docks at the foot of Kentucky avenue. Friday night "three men in a boat," pulled up to the place of mooring, cut the ropes, tied the launch to their skiff and pulled into the river. An attaché of the Pittsburg Coal company saw them and challenged them. He threatened to shoot and the men tied the launch to the Langstaff saw logs, pulled across the river and disappeared.

Greek Tobacco Crop.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Consul George Horton, of Athens, writes that the Greek tobacco crop of 1905 was the largest Greece ever harvested, nearly 200,000,000 pounds. The Sary brand crop was about 11,000,000 pounds. This brand is in great demand for Egyptian cigarettes. Alexandria, Egypt, has 25,000 eighty-eight-pound bales of inferior grade in storage.

KING CONFESSED

AND WAS HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR SHOOTING.

He Shot George Richardson in the Leg—Other Cases in the Police Court.

Had Joe King, colored, who shot George Richardson, colored, in the left leg, necessitating amputation, not admitted to the police that he "shot in self defense" he might be free.

He went to get a bucket of beer for a woman residing next door to Richardson and on return got into the wrong door. Richardson struck him with a stick and King went home, procured a shotgun, returned and shot Richardson on his own front porch. King was held over to the grand jury. Richardson was dismissed.

Other cases: Jack Dale, colored, petty larceny, fled away; Nicholas Gains, petty larceny, held; T. Mack, colored, breach of peace, $10.

J. J. HILL IGNORES SUBPOENA.

Refuses to Appear as Witness Before Minnesota Railway Commission. St. Paul, Sept. 8.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, has defied the authority of the state railroad commission and ignored a subpoena to appear as a witness, September 18, in a case relative to a reduction of the coal rate at Hastings. Mr. Hill was handed the subpoena today. He read it and said: "I cannot attend that meeting. I have too much business on hand. I don't think I will be in the city at that time anyway."

BANK CLEARINGS SHOW GREAT GAIN

One Holiday Does Not Interrupt Exchange of Money.

Local Factories Running Full Force, Stores Have Large Stocks on Hand.

RETAIL STORES ARE FIXING UP.

Bank clearings . . . $750,310
Same week last year . . 613,719
Increase 136,591

The strong increase this week in bank clearings, in face of one holiday, may be taken as a net increase in business over last year. Last year's clearings in the same week were not held down by any untoward influences, the south having become accustomed to the fever situation and business became nearly normal in consequence.

A walk through the warehouses of the wholesale concerns, the manufacturing plants and the retail stores shows a larger stock on hand in all lines than for any previous fall. The Cohankus Manufacturing company has resumed operations after a shutdown of several weeks. The Smith & Scott Tobacco company has about completed manufacturing for this year, but most other plants are running with full forces. Roy L. Culley & company's store opened this week, and the prosperity of all the retail stores is indicated by the additions, new fronts and other improvements which can be noticed over town, and which keep the mechanics in the city busy.

WHOLE STATE

INTERESTED IN IMMIGRATION MOVEMENT STARTED HERE.

State Development Convention Asks for Report of the Meeting in Paducah.

The whole state is interested in the immigration convention to be held here October 4 and 5, and the directors of the State Development convention have written to Secretary Coons, of the Commercial club, asking him to make a report of the work of this convention before the development convention, which meets at Lancaster, October 10, 11 and 12. The letter stated that nothing but an affirmative reply would be accepted, so Secretary Coons will go.

"All of Murray will be there," is the expression of E. R. Phillips, of that place, who replied to a communication from Hon. Ollie James, accepting an invitation to attend, and promising to be present.

Both the Illinois Central and the Nashville Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad companies have made a rate of a fare and one-third for the round trip during the convention. The steamboats give a one-fare round trip rate. An effort will be made to induce the railroads to meet this rate, as the immigration movement is as much to their interest as to the interest of other property owners in this section.

Wagar, Ala., Sept. 8.—While Lawrence Sullivan and son Hunter, a mute, were in the woods last evening they caught Ernest Johnson, a negro, with a hog, he had killed. While remonstrating with Johnson Lawrence Sullivan was shot and killed by a man concealed in the bushes. Hunter then killed Johnson and wounded the man he saw running. Another man killed young Sullivan.

NO GAS

COLD BREAKFASTS, STRAIGHT HAIR AND LATE WORKERS.

All Due to Shutting Down at Plant, While Newspapers Waited and Waited Patiently.

"Cook with gas" was a joke in the residence portion of Paducah this morning.

"We went to my wife's mother's for breakfast," was the remark of more than one fortunate man, who was late to work today.

Other men did not have any mothers-in-law in Paducah, or found their wives' folks were in the same fix as they themselves. This made prepared breakfast foods popular.

The trouble was that the gas company is replacing machinery and shut down the plant from midnight until after 8 o'clock this morning.

Some women, who use electric lights, and only light the gas jets to heat their curling irons, appeared early with straight hair.

It is all right now but the afternoon papers were nearly three hours late getting started this morning.

SHOT AT BURGLAR IN STOCKING FEET

But Intruder Escaped Unharmful From Premises.

Mrs. Lee Was in House Alone and Her Screams Attracted Attention of Neighbor.

LEAVES HIS SHOES BEHIND

Leaving his shoes, which he had pulled off in order to insure a soft tread, an unknown negro burglar escaped from the residence of Fenne Lee, on Lincoln avenue, last night with bullets whizzing dangerously near his head.

Fred Green, an Illinois Central car repairer, resides next door to the Lee residence. He returned from a visit to his father's home and on his arrival heard screams from his neighbor's house. He had no weapon, but called to Charles Osborne, a fireman residing next door to him. Osborne had a 44 caliber Colt's revolver and let go at the negro. He missed and the negro ran.

Mrs. Lee was alone at the time of the visit, her husband being a car inspector in the south yards at night.

PALMA'S RETIREMENT

And General Election Will Bring Peace to Cuba.

Havana, Sept. 8.—President Palma's retirement from office and the holding of a new election throughout Cuba will bring peace to the country. This is the reply of General Guerra, commander of the insurgents in Pinar del Rio province to the overtures made him.

FIRST GUN

FIRE IN CAMPAIGN FOR LOWER RATES BY SHIPPERS.

Railroad Officials Say Better Facilities and Not Lower Rates Are Wanted.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—The Tribune says:

The first gun in the shippers' campaign for lower freight rates was fired when circulars were sent out to members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the American Shippers' association, asking for an expression of an opinion as to whether the best means to secure the desired end was by agitation for a system of universal classification.

This was the method favored by those who attended the shippers' conference held in Washington the day before the new rate law went into effect.

Railroad interests also entered the skirmish, which promises to be followed by a great battle. President B. L. Winchell, of the Rock Island lines, in a statement, said the agitation of shippers' organizations for lower rates is calculated to harm the shippers and the country generally, as well as the railroads.

"The chief need of the country, so far as the railroads are concerned," said Mr. Winchell, "is not lower rates, passenger or freight, but better railroads and better and more adequate service. Rates are lower in the United States than in any other country in the world, and they could not be reduced materially without so impairing railway revenues."

HEIRS SUE CHURCH FOR GIFT.

Demand Payment of $1,500 Left by Woman in Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 8.—Heirs of the late Wilhelmina Voight today began suit against the German Lutheran church here for the purpose of recalling a gift of $1,500 which Mrs. Voight made to the church in 1901.

Mrs. Voight made the gift with the understanding the trustees of the church should pay interest on the money at the rate of 3 per cent.

After her death the heirs demanded the repayment of the money from the church on the ground that all of the money which had been used by Mrs. Voight had been left in trust for the children. The trustees of the church have refused to refund the gift, and will fight the case in the courts.

DICK CALLS BURTON PLOTTER.

Ohio Senator Says Congressman Is Scheming for Foraker's Togs.

Akron, O., Sept. 8.—Senator Dick replied to Congressman Burton's statement that the Republican state machine, of which Dick is the reputed head, used federal and state employees for the advancement of the organization members rather than the party. Dick charges Burton with plotting to get control of the state executive committee to further his election as successor to Senator Foraker.

HOPPER

MAY BE BUILT BY PITTSBURG COAL COMPANY.

Mechanism to Separate Three Grades of Coal as It Is Unloaded From Barges.

Plans are under way to build a hopper at the foot of the Pittsburg Coal company at the foot of Washington street. The hopper will be steam operated mechanism to separate the different kinds of coal, nut-lump and egg. Heretofore this has been done by hand.

The coal comes down the river in barge loads and all kinds are indiscriminately heaped together. The steam digger, which unloads barges into wagons, was a great labor-saving addition and if the hopper is built the digger will drop the coal into it and the three different kinds will come out separated.

The hopper not only will separate the coal more quickly but more accurately, and the first cost of installation soon will be offset by the saving in time and labor.

MANY SAVED BY SINGLE MATCH.

Slender Means Enables Farmer and Wife to Prevent Wreck.

Conway, Ark., Sept. 8.—Upon a single match depended the lives of many persons last night, when an attempt to wreck the Fort Smith passenger train near Paducah was frustrated by John Sloan and his wife. They were walking along the track and discovered a switch thrown open and large stones and railroad ties piled on the track. They could hear the train speeding around a near-by curve. Sloan had only one match, which he succeeded in lighting and fired a piece of paper. His wife removed her white petticoat, and waving it in the light of the burning paper, succeeded in stopping the train within a few yards of the switch.

For New Fishing Treaty.

Washington, Sept. 8.—To promote our friendly relations with Canada and end, if possible, the seemingly interminable Newfoundland fishery disputes, A. B. Alexander, of the bureau of fisheries, under instructions from the president, will soon start north. He was today in conference with Acting Secretary of State Bacon, receiving instructions. Mr. Alexander is familiar with many phases of the troublesome controversy, having been in Newfoundland waters several months directing an inquiry. He has collected considerable data that will be valuable in negotiating a new treaty, and his present mission will be to complete the collection of statistics regarding the industry. Most of the trouble is said to arise out of a misunderstanding of the existing treaty. Mr. Alexander will therefore be instructed carefully to explain the provisions of the present intricate arrangement to the captains of all American fishing vessels.

The stage of the river here is 10.6, the gauge registering a fall in the last 24 hours of it. Business at the wharf this week has held up well.

Capt. Robert Hunter left at 2 o'clock this morning with the Bob Dudley for Nashville. The Dudley will resume the upper Cumberland river trade. Capt. Armstrong brought the Henry Harley to the city yesterday afternoon from the Cumberland river and will superintend the repairs on it to be made at the ways. The Harley will run an excursion Sunday to Cairo for negroes.

The Scotia will be let into the river next week probably Wednesday. A new hull has been built on the Scotia and the boat changed from side to stern wheel. The Royal will be taken out after the Scotia is finished. The Henrietta will require ten days or two weeks more to be repaired.

The Gate City, which will enter the Paducah-Dyersburg trade, has not been inspected, but probably will be next week.

The Lydia left for the Tennessee river this morning after ties.

The United States towboat Neptune passed up from the Mississippi river last night on the way to Evansville.

A RIGHTEOUS USURPATION.

Mr. Roosevelt's Interference Aroused Congress to Activity.

Rigidly independent critics of the administration agree that in the first session of the Fifty-ninth congress more general laws of a far-reaching character were enacted than in any other session of recent years. Fairer judges regard this legislative work as the best, from the standpoint of the whole people of the republic, that has been done in the last quarter of a century. And in this accomplishment, friends, caustic critics and enemies declare, with one accord, that the driving power was unquestionably the president's. As tersely expressed by a progressive southern Democrat:

Roosevelt has galvanized congress into action. This means that the president is a usurper. But his interference in legislative matters is by and with the advice and consent of the people. Not so much can be said of the usurpations of congress. When considering the one the other should not be forgotten.

In the first congress a dispute arose in the senate over the procedure in advising and consenting relative to the nominations sent in by President Washington. There were members who contended that the senate must, without consultation with the executive, confirm or reject the nominations. There were others who made so bold as to assert that the president should be asked for references for the nominees in case they were not known to senators. At that early period there was no expression of the "right" of senators of a state to be consulted before selections were made—a political doctrine upheld by the late Senator Hoar, a "statesman of the old school."

As the country grew and federal offices multiplied it became necessary for the president to seek counsel before nominating men to the government service. He naturally turned to senators and representatives. At just what period the giving of advice came to be construed as the rendering of consent in the making of selections, it is difficult to say. Even under so independent an executive as Roosevelt the appointive power is largely usurped by congress.

"Has the collectorship of the post at — been filled?" was the query recently made at the White House. "No," was the reply. "The president would like to appoint his old friend Hardy, but Senator Slick is committed to Heeler."

About all the president can do is to see to it that senators and representatives name fit men. But, if he suspects that they are ineligible, the burden is on him to discover their unfitness. With this elementary discussion in mind, it is patent that there is congressional—particularly senatorial—usurpation of one of the important functions of the executive, in this day and generation. A practice inaugurated by some president for his guidance and convenience has come to be regarded by senators as an inalienable right. It is equally true that there is executive interference in legislative matters. How and why has that come about? For an answer let us go to the legislation of the last session of congress. But let us go behind the work of congress.

The house of representatives did not pass the sort of meat-inspection bill that the leaders had agreed upon with Mr. Wadsworth. The speaker and his cohorts put up with the dictation of the president, who usurped the functions of the legislative department in the interests of the people. But for Theodore Roosevelt there would not now be the means of efficient inspection from the pasture through the slaughterhouse and through the canning department; there could not be an insistence by

When Women Suffer

It is a sign of dangerous weakness and disease. Pain is always unnatural, and if you are a victim of headache, backache, sideache, pain in arms, shoulders, legs, pelvis, or suffer from cramps, falling feelings, grinding pains, restlessness, the blues, etc., it is a sign that you need the gentle assistance which can be obtained by taking

WINE OF CARDUI Woman's Relief

"My back ached every month" writes Mrs. Francis J. Ashburn of Clarkrange, Tenn. "I could scarcely stand on my feet. I had pain low down and headache—not a day without it—and awful pain in my right and left sides. I could hardly lie down, and could not sleep nights. Doctors tried, but failed to give me permanent relief. I began to take Cardui, which soon benefited me, and now I feel like a new person." Cardui is a purely vegetable remedy, for all female diseases. It acts gently and specifically upon the sick womanly organs, and by strengthening and fitting them to do their natural work, it has restored to health thousands of hopeless invalids. Try it.

To a Daisy.

Wee, little rindless wheel of Fate,
With silver spokes and hub of yellow,
What gentle girl, in accents mel-
low,
Has sought your aid to find a mate?

O, tiny hub of golden hue,
Kissed by her finger's tender pressing,
Still yet, methinks she's vainly guessing
If what you prophesied were true.

You died between her finger tips,
Sweet Gypsy maid of wisdom magic;
Pray, it is worth a death so tragic
To hear the music of her lips?

Indoor Dance.

One of the ambitious indoor parties of the summer was that given by Mrs. W. C. Kidd in compliment to her visitor, Miss Alice Strong, of Cairo, Wednesday evening. To the stimulating music the dancers enjoyed the waltz, two-step and Tucker until a late hour. For those who did not dance there was the pleasure of the swings and settees about the lawn with the distance-mellowed music floating through the windows. The not see the light until before the prancing steeds and graceful riders, and in the presence of the glittering show which will no doubt throng the grounds.

The week of the Horse Show, generally promises many events in the social world, at the Kentucky, dances, box parties and receptions. The continued hot weather, has postponed active resumption of social gayety.

Only a few of the clubs will have meetings before the Horse Show.

Misses Pieper Entertain.

The Misses Pieper entertained on Tuesday evening with a dance at their home on North Thirteenth street. The party spent several hours in the delightful diversion. The party included Misses Louise Deitzel, Mabel Leming, Marie Roth, Leola Purchase and the Misses Pieper, Messrs. Joe Roth, Joe Fisher, Albert Roth, James Luttrell, Hayden Ferguson, Mr. Tisser, of St. Louis, and Charles Rottgering.

At Bridge.

In compliment to Mrs. Ellis Tucker, of Memphis, the guest of Mrs. George Flournoy and Mrs. C. S. Wall, the guest of Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. E. G. Boone entertained Tuesday afternoon at bridge. There were four tables. The decorations were prettily arranged and light refreshments were served.

Notes.

Miss Irene L. McMahon was married to Mr. Louis A. Walton in St. Louis Monday morning. Both young people live in the city and popular in a circle of friends.

Miss Lena Wilkins was married Sunday to Mr. Lacy C. Hall by the Rev. P. H. Fields. They are house-keeping at 1414 South Eighth street.

It was announced this week that the wedding of Miss Virginia Johnson and Mr. L. S. Clappitt had taken place June 17 at Paris, Tenn. This announcement came as a surprise to the public who were looking forward to the wedding.

Sixty-six persons enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Johnston Rudolph and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sheron on Monday in the country. It was an old-fashioned country dinner.

The rain prevented a lawn party at Miss Little Smith's given for her Sunday school class, but the entertainment was enjoyed as much in the house. The young people were delighted.

The Cotillion club's dance to have been given Tuesday evening was postponed indefinitely.

BIG SHOW WILL BE HERE.

Barnum & Bailey Coming With New Circus Acts and Thrillers.

The Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth will exhibit in Paducah Sept. 27.

Among this season's most notable announcements are a new military spectacle, allegorically portraying the closing days of the Russo-Japanese war in Manchuria and the triumph of "Peace," three distinct sensations, in one of which an automobile, driven by a beautiful French woman, turns a complete somersault in mid-air; a great circus company of 300 European and American artists, who present the latest achievements in riding, acrobatic and aerial daring; several troupes of remarkably trained horses; an exciting battle scene, presented by the central group of the three great herds of elephants; an entirely new hippodrome, with genuine Kentucky racing stock and jockeys of international reputation, and a largely augmented zoo of rare wild beasts.

In these days of rush and hurry courtesy is often forgotten. In the mad, pell mell rush of our life little things are done to offend that we rather remained undone. ON NATURALIZATION.

Political managers in the great cities will have to get busy to perpetuate any more ante-election naturalization frauds, for after September 27, no one will be naturalized until December 27. It will be the first time in decades that the growth of citizenship by artificial means has been suspended. The new law requires that application shall be made 90 days before the papers are taken out. Perhaps, the chief benefit of the law is that application for citizenship must be made more than 30 days prior to a general election.

Persons of foreign birth must be able to speak the English language. This is another excellent requirement, as it, to a certain extent, prevents that menace of our congested cities—colonies of foreign-tongued citizens, unable to learn the significance of an election at first hand, more or less under control of a domineering leader of their own race and constrained to bring up their children in a foreign atmosphere.

Notice of the application must be posted at the court house, and the federal government reserves the right to appear by attorney at all naturalization proceedings. The papers are issued by the bureau of immigration and the federal government assumes general control over the proceedings, as it should.

Another source of constant international irritation is alleviated by the power reserved in the general government to revoke the citizenship of naturalized Americans residing in foreign countries. It has been customary for some people, notably Italians, Greeks, Chinese and other oriental and Latin races to live for a time in America, until they have accumulated a competence, which is often increased no doubt, by revenue from the sale of their right of suffrage, and then return to their native land, there to spend their days in comparative ease. Many of this kind, relying on their American citizenship, defy the laws of their native land and drag this country in aggravating controversies.

Altogether the uniform naturalization law promises well, and should prove a great improvement over the haphazard way the states have been following of extending citizenship.

CHANCE FOR AN ISSUE.

The Lexington Herald suggests an opportunity for an issue in the Democratic senatorial campaign, which the two candidates will not be eager to grasp. The Herald recalls the fact that the Democratic party, if it follows Bryan's idea will be committed to an attempt to revolutionize railroading in America and in the following language invites the candidates to declare themselves:

With the Democratic party confronted with the question as to whether it is to commit itself to public ownership of railroads, there is an opportunity to raise the senatorial campaign in Kentucky out of the rut of state affairs and time-worn platitudes with respect to national politics. If the party is to follow Mr. Bryan, and attempt the revolution in railroad ownership and management which he proposes, the successor to Senator McCreary will have a part in that work. It is, therefore, important to the Democratic party, not merely in Kentucky but in the nation, that the next senator shall be in accord with the policy the party is to pursue during the presidential term if it shall be so fortunate as to elect Mr. Roosevelt's successor. The senatorial campaign offers an opportunity for Kentucky to express herself upon this proposition. If one of the candidates for senator should take a position either for or against Mr. Bryan's new issue, it is difficult to see how the other candidate could afford to dodge.

WHEN WARFIELD FORGOT HIS PART.

David Warfield was testing of his first appearance upon any stage. "After some time," said he, in an interview, with J. Herbert Welch in "Success Magazine," "I persuaded the manager of 'The Wigwag,' a vaudeville house in San Francisco, to allow me to give an audience an exhibition of my powers. It was an exhibition, all right. I shall never forget that night.

"Feeling that my whole future depended upon the outcome of this first real appearance, I grew more and more frightened as the hour approached. As I stood in the wings, waiting for my time to go out and entertain that big crowd with 'stories and imitations,' my legs felt so wobbly that I was actually afraid that I would sway and fall down on my way to the center of the stage. The act of the man just ahead of me seemed very long, and yet I wished that he would never stop. At last the comedian came rushing out, flushed and exultant, amid applause and laughter. The orchestra swung into the music for my entrance. I cleared my throat, threw back my shoulders, and tried to walk out briskly, with an air of smiling confidence. But it was a weak smile, and when I tried to speak I discovered that there was something the matter with my voice. It sounded strange and husky. I started to tell a lively story; but, in my efforts to keep my knees from shaking, I lost the thread of it. The people out in front began to turn toward each other with grins. 'Try a song,' called a shrill voice from the gallery. This was followed by other jeering remarks. I commenced my story over again.

"Forget it!" shouted somebody. "He has," answered somebody else. Then I heard stinging hisses. Glancing toward the refuge of the wings I saw the manager beckoning. I bowed, tried to smile, and walked off."

ROOSEVELT ON CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

"After considerable experience in almost every kind of governmental work, I have never yet found any position or any branch of the service as regards which the infusion of political reasons in making appointments does not damage. The result is always bad when the appointment has to be complicated with the question of politics.

"I am now naturally brought into relations with a great number of important offices in different branches of the government throughout this country, and I continually have to consider the question of the efficiency with which they are handled. Practically without exception I find that an office in which there is laxness in the administration of the civil service law, where there is an effort to circumvent the law, where there is effort to get around it, is an office in which poor service is rendered; the chance for fraud, for speculation, for dishonesty, is always greater in such an office than in the office where the law is well and faithfully observed. If the appointing officer administers the civil service law in a spirit of hostility to it, if he tries to evade it or violate it, it has been my experience that in the great majority of cases inefficiency and corruption are sure to obtain. THE EDITOR'S LETTERS.

Newspaper men are educated in no small degree by the thousands of minds which react upon the facts alleged and the opinions put forward to the world. Criticisms, whether wise or foolish, teach us at least much about the constitution of the general mind. Many of them are corrective and intelligent, some remarkable for their naïveté. Among the simpler ones the types recur. Every time, for example, that a book is praised, a crop of responses arrive, asking where it can be procured, or requesting us to purchase it and mail to the inquirer. Sometimes fifty cents is inclosed, with a promise of more if needed. Such requests come, as often as not, from places large enough to contain book-shops. Another favorite device is to cite an opinion or statement of ours, without giving the date or context, as a basis for some special information about it, such bits of ingenuitiveness, however, vanish in an editor's general impression of his correspondence, which stands to him for one of the most fertile channels of instruction, of first-hand and varied experience, that have ever enriched his passage through this vale.—From Collier's for September 1, 1906.

An Assistant of Nature.

One of the most interesting things of this day of interesting things is the great success being achieved by osteopathy. There is hardly a day that some cure which is deserving of attracting much attention, is not made by this new science, and the more it is studied, and the better it is known, the easier it is to see why it is so. Osteopathy merely aids nature to cure.

It is a system of healing built upon demonstrable facts. It discovers the cause of disease, and treats it by scientific manipulations in order to correct disorders and bring about a natural condition. Nearly all diseases yield to the treatment, and the diseases local to Paducah do so most readily. In rheumatism, liver and bowel, or stomach troubles, chronic headaches tired-out, run-down conditions, nervousness, its success has been very marked.

I should like to have you call to discuss your particular case at any time, and not only will I tell you frankly what osteopathy will do for you, but refer you to well-known Paducah people whom it has done much for.

CULLEY OPENING WAS SUCCESSFUL

Fully Five Thousand People
Thronged the Store.

Music, Flowers and Foliage Made the Place the Attraction of the Day.

THE FIRM IS CONGRATULATED.

The opening of the new store of Roy L. Culley & company, outfitters to men and boys, yesterday was auspicious.

The store was thrown open at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and until 9 o'clock was thronged with the friends of the members of the popular firm during the entire time. A successful opening augurs a successful career, so that the career of the new firm should be an unusually brilliant one. Probably 5,000 people visited the store in the three hours it was open. They had been promised a beautiful store, and none was disappointed. The details of it were published in the papers Thursday, which gave a conception of what to expect, but the appearance of the establishment last night with the tasteful decorations, revealed more than was promised. The decorations were autumn leaves and natural flowers, potted plants and bouquets, and the store resembled more a handsome conservatory than a business mart.

Mr. Culley and his associates received the callers in a cordial manner, and were busy acknowledging well wishes and congratulations. The clerks presented the firm with a handsome mission clock and flower designs were received from the following friends: The Eclipse Clothing company, M. Zuccarella, Billie Stairs and Lucian D. Carr, of New York; Carter & Holmes, Rosenwald & Well, and Eugene Frank, of Chicago; B. Welle & Son, Wallerstein Bros., and Edwin J. Paxton, of the city.

Souvenirs were given the callers, who were entertained by an orchestra stationed in the rear of the store. A pretty incident of the evening was the attendance in a body of the Red Men's lodge. It was in session, when one of the members moved that "the council quench its fires for a few minutes and call on a brother member just launching his canoe in the commercial world, and extend its good wishes." It was quickly adopted and 60 strong the members lined up and called, afterwards resuming their session.

Mr. Culley was busy today, too, receiving congratulations, and the store has been thronged all day.

HORSE KICKED UP

And Robert Fitzpatrick Was Struck By Flying Heels.

Robert Fitzpatrick met with a peculiar mishap at Fifth street and Broadway this morning. He was seated on a load of sand going south on Fifth street. The driver had a colt hitched on the side on which Mr. Fitzpatrick was sitting. Just as they reached Broadway the colt let loose with its hind feet and caught Mr. Fitzpatrick in the breast. It knocked the breath out of his body and he half sprang, half fell out of the wagon, and was assisted to a seat by people who witnessed the occurrence. He recovered from the shock in a short time.

standing that the superintendent's decision would be abided by, however, it went. Dr. Pfeiffer said he had received 47 telephone calls that day urging arbitration and thought that was the only solution. Mr. Walston wanted to know when the superintendent would make his recommendation. He said that the schools must start and no delay should be sanctioned. He said he would stand by the superintendent's decision. Mr. Walston then wanted to know, if the motion to make Miss Morgan a principal was lost, whether the other side would agree to finish the other business of electing teachers.

Mr. Karnes said Supt. Lieb should say that night whether he would recommend her for that position. He also said that as for him, he was in favor of Miss Morgan, because the people wanted her to teach and that the voice of the people was his final authority. Mr. Walston caused amusement by saying that every man in the proportion of ten to one, he had seen, favored a new English teacher. Mr. Potter went him one better with the proportion of 20 to 1. But Mr. Beckenbach reached the end of the limit when he said that not a single man had expressed a different view from his own. All swore to their statements and some offered to give bonds for their veracity. An amendment to finish the other business should the superintendent not recommend her as principal, was lost by a tie vote and the original motion was carried as stated.

Prof. Lieb's Objections.

Mr. Beckenbach requested that Supt. Lieb speak. Supt. Lieb said he was placed in an embarrassing position; that it was factional fight, which, if he sided either way, would be making it worse; that he had considered the problem which caused the deadlock for two years and saw no reason to change his mind. He was confident that in his action he had the endorsement of 100 per cent. of his conscience, even if 90 per cent. of the people differed with him.

After further insisting, the president ordered the charges made. Mr. Beckenbach suggested that any charges should go through the grievance committee. Supt. Lieb took the floor and explained to the board that Miss Morgan is not in the employ of the schools. That her contract expired last June. He did not like the use of the word "charges," thinking it too harsh. He thought "objections" would be better. He said that as Miss Morgan was not in the employ of the schools, the board might state objections to her as a teacher, but not through the grievance committee. His words struck the board as sensible.

Mr. Beckenbach at this moment in the proceedings caught and held up a motion to adjourn.

Mr. Lieb was requested to state his reasons for recommending a new teacher for English. He said:

"Since it is necessary I will speak. Let me preface what I may say with the statement that personally I have the greatest regard for Miss Morgan and whatever I may say is said from a professional standpoint. Two years ago I thought she was insubordinate. She did not seem to have the executive ability to control a school, so I recommended and the board concurred in my recommendation, that she be made teacher in English in the High school. I do not prefer any charges against her as a teacher. I did not believe her capable of being a principal. This year I sent her a note calling her attention to her lack of punctuality, and in a pleasant interview we had, she was told that she was not entirely subordinate and later she said her brother agreed with me on that point. I cannot recommend her for a principalship. However, this board will do what pleases it and I cheerfully will abide by its decision. I would like to see the trouble end and what I have said to you tonight, is said both on my honor and professional ability."

Dr. Williamson interrupted asking what standing Paducah schools had with the large universities. Supt. Lieb said he had not invited the examiners to visit the schools to get a recommendation for High school certificates, because the English department was not up to the standard.

Mr. Beckenbach said he would not counter-charge Supt. Lieb but made a motion that the board take a recess of 15 minutes to give each side the opportunity to discuss the situation.

It was after the recess that Mr. Beckenbach made a motion that Mr. Walston's original motion to leave the question to arbitration, be reconsidered. Mr. Petter and Dr. Troutman opposed a reconsideration and Dr. Williamson asked if the other teachers would be elected if the English position was left to arbitration.

Mr. List favored a reconsideration. Mr. Byrd thought the other teachers should not be elected until the board of arbitration rendered its opinion. Mr. Morris was for reconsideration. Mr. Beckenbach made the motion on condition that all the details of the board of arbitration be worked out immediately. The motion carried with eleven yeas and one nay.

Supt. to Fill Vacancies.

Mr. Walston suggested that the board of arbitration be formed from the fifth proposition. Mr. Beckenbach asked permission to consider all propositions and after an agreement that the eleventh man, if necessary, would not be notified of his election so that he would not have a prejudiced opinion, the fifth proposition was accepted, eleven yeas, one nay. Supt. Lieb was instructed to fill all vacancies not filled by the board and in reply he said that he seriously doubted if there was material enough to do that, but that the best would be done. The resignation of Miss Adie Byrd as teacher was read and accepted.

On motion by Mr. Walston, all other teachers were elected and the deadlock became a thing of the past—except that the music teacher was not appointed. The first ballot resulted in a tie vote, but on the second vote two members changed their votes to avoid any more deadlock no-jority.

From the time the English position had been disposed of by arbitration, a genuine expression of relief could be seen on every face. The fact that the meeting ended so advantageously for all concerned was due to the conciliatory spirit shown at the beginning of the meeting. By a hitch in arrangements, Trustees Pfeiffer and Walston were not present at the building at 8 o'clock and had to be secured before the meeting began which was 8:50 o'clock. The meeting was called at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon on short notice.

Arbitrators.

Most of the citizens appointed to the arbitration board at the school meeting last night have signified their willingness to serve, but new men may have been chosen to fill the vacancies of some of the members of the arbitration board who for one reason or another cannot serve. Mr. C. M. Leake may be out of the city. President Williamson will call a meeting when the board is complete in accordance with the opinion of the majority of the members who desire a speedy meeting and settlement of the question.

The Bath Comedy

By AGNES and EGERTON CASTLE

Authors of "The Pride of Jennico"

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EGERTON CASTLE

CHAPTER I.

WHAT? My sweet Lady Standish in tears?"

Mistress Kitty Bellairs poised her dainty person on one foot and cast a mocking, somewhat contemptuous, yet good humored glance at the slim length of sobbing womanhood prone on the gilt legged, satin cushioned sofa.

"Tears," said Mistress Kitty, twirling round on her heel to look at the set of her new sack in the mirror and admire its delicate flowered folds as they caught the shafts of spring sunshine that pierced into the long, dim room from the narrow street, "tears, my dear, unless you cry becomingly, which I would have you know not one in the thousand can, are a luxury every self respecting woman ought to deny herself. Now, I," said Mistress Kitty, and twinned at a powdered curl and turned her head like a bird for a last glimpse at the mirror before sinking into an armchair and drawing closer to her afflicted friend, "have not shed a tear since I lost my first lover, and that is— I will not say how many years ago, I was a mightily precocious child. When I say a tear, what you, 'tis a figure of speech. Far be it from me to deny the charm of a pearly drop—just one; enough to gather on the tip of the finger, enough just to soothe the pathetic eye. Oh, that is not only permissible, 'tis to be cultivated. But such weeping as yours—sobs that shake you, tears that drench the handkerchief, reddened eyes, not to speak of the nose—dear me, 'tis to be avoided at all costs. Come," with a sudden gentle change of tone, putting her hand on the abused head, where fair curls luxuriated in all their native curls, "what is it all about?"

Lady Standish slowly and languidly drew herself into a sitting posture and raised a countenance marred out of its delicate beauty by the violent passion of her grief. Swimming blue eyes she fixed upon the Mistress Kitty's plump, dimpling face.

"Alas," she breathed upon the gust of a sigh that was as wet as an April breeze, and tripped up by a belated sob, "Alas, you see in me the most miserable of women. Alas, my heart is broken!"

Here the kerchief, soaked indeed beyond all possible utility, was frantically held to streaming eyes once more.

"Mercy!" cried the pretty widow. "You could not take on worse if you had the smallpox; you, a three months' wife!"

"Ah, me!" moaned Lady Standish.

"So," said Mistress Kitty, "he has been a brute again, has he? Come, Julia, weep on my bosom. What is it now? Did he kiss you on the forehead instead of on the lips, or did he say, 'Zounds, madam, when you upset a dish of tea over his waistcoat, or yet did he, could he, the monster—may, it is not possible, yet men are so—could he have whispered that Lady Caroline looked passable last night?"

Lady Standish rose to her feet, crumpled her kerchief in one small hand and faced her friend with tragic passion.

"It is useless to blind myself," she said. "Cease to gibe at me, pray, Mistress Bellairs. I must face the truth! My husband loves me no longer! Oh, Kitty, Kitty," dropping from her height of tragedy very quickly and landing on a whimper again, "is it not sad? I have tried, heaven is my witness, to win him back by the tenderest love, by the most pitiful pleading. He has seen me weep and pine. 'Rob me of your love,' I have told him, 'and you rob me of life.' And he, he—oh, how shall I tell you? As the days go by he is with me less and less. He walks abroad with others. His evenings he gives to strangers—aye, and half his nights—while I may sob myself to sleep at home. 'Twas half an hour ago. He entered here upon an hour ago. He entered here upon me, looking, ah, Kitty, as only he can look, the most elegant and beautiful of men. I was singing, piping as a poor bird may to strive and call its mate to the nest. He passed through the room without a word, without a sign, he that used to say 'twas heaven to sit and listen to my voice. 'What?' I exclaimed as he reached the door. 'Not a word for poor Julia?' Kitty, at the sound of that cry wrung from my heart he turned and frowned and said—Oh, oh, oh!"

"Ha!" said Mistress Kitty. "What said he?" "Heaven help him," said she aside. "The woman's a fountain." "He said," sobbed Julia, "Mayn't a man even go for a stroll? Oh, had you but heard the cold, indifferent tone you would have understood how it cut me to the heart. I ran to him and laid my hand upon his sleeve, and he said—"

Again grief overcame her.

"Well, what said he?"

"He said—oh, he said, 'Julia, don't paw me.'"

Mistress Kitty Bellairs, the reigning toast of Bath, the prettiest woman, in the estimation of her admirers, in all England, and the wittiest, laughed low to herself, then rose from her chair, took her tall friend by the shoulders and walked her up to the mirror.

"Look at yourself," said she, "and look at me."

Lady Standish winced. The contrast between her own disheveled hair, her arched, swollen countenance, her untidy morning gown and the blooming perfection of the apparition beside her was more than she could contemplate. Kitty Bellairs—as complete in every detail of beauty as a carnation—smiled upon herself sweetly.

"My dear," said she, "I have had thirty-seven declared adorers these three years, and never one tired of me yet. Poor Bellairs," she said, with a light sigh, "he had two wives before me, and he was sixty-nine when he died, but he told me with his last breath that 'twas I gave him all the joy he ever knew."

Lady Standish ceased weeping as suddenly as if her tears had been mechanically turned off. She regarded the widow earnestly.

"Now, child," said Mistress Bellairs, with all the authority of her twenty-six years, "here we have been four weeks acquainted and you have more than once done me the honor of saying that you considered me your friend."

"Tis so," said Lady Standish.

"Then listen to me. There are three great rules to be observed in our dealings with men. The first rule comprises an extraordinary number of minor details, but briefly and comprehensively it runs thus: Never be monotonous. Second rule: Never let a man be too sure of you. Oh, that is a wonderful, wise maxim! Reflect upon it. Third: Never, never let a man see how well, how far from lovely you can look. Tush, tush! You are a better looking woman than I am, but not when you have been blubbling and not when you are fretful."

"Look at yourself," said she, "and look at me."

Lady Standish suddenly sat down as if her limbs could support her no more. She looked up at the ceiling with tear dimmed eyes.

"Pray," said Mistress Kitty inquisitorially ex cathedra, "how many times a day do you tell that unfortunate man that you love him? And, worse still, how many times a day do you want him to say that he loves you? I vow 'tis enough to drive him to cards or wine or something infinitely worse than also begins with a w! And, pray, if you spend all you have and empty your purse, do you think your purse becomes a very valuable possession? 'Tis a mere bit of leather. Nay, nay, keep your gold and give it out piece by piece, and do not give it at all unless you get good change for it. Oh," cried Kitty, a fine flush of indignation rising scarlet behind her rouge, "I marvel that women should be such fools—to act the handmaid where they should ever rule as mistress, to cast forth unsought what they should dole out only to the suppliant on bended knee. Hath a man ever had from me an unsolicited avowal? Have I ever thrown the most ardent lover more than a 'perhaps' and 'it may be,' a smile, a dimple, a finger tip? (What they have stolen I have not given, that is obvious. And, besides, 'tis neither here nor there.) And pray, Lady Standish, since when have you left off putting on rouge and having your hair tinted and powdered, and wearing a decent gown of mornings and a modish sack, and a heel to that pretty foot, a jewel in the ear and a patch beneath the lip?"

Lady Standish had ceased contemplating the ceiling. She was looking at her friend.

"But, madam," she said, "this is strange advice. Would you have me coquette with my husband? Tell me, what shall I do?"

"Do!" cried the widow, rising with a brisk laugh. "Get some powder into your hair and some color into those cheeks. And when Sir Jasper returns the left yof in tears; he will be sullen when he comes home; 'tis a mere matter of self defense let him find you gay, distract. Say a sharp thing or two if you can. Tell him you do not need his company this afternoon. Ah, and if you could make him jealous! 'Tis a very, very old trick, but, then, you see, love is a very old game, the oldest of all. Make him jealous, my dear; make him jealous and you'll win the rubber yet!"

"Jealous!" cried the three months' wife, and all the blood of the innocent country girl leaped to her brow. "Oh, madam, how could that be?"

THEATRICAL NOTES

Not often does a playwright have the privilege of feeling such a triumph as Henry Arthur Jones must have experienced Thursday night at the end of the third act, when the audience rose with a unanimous shout of praise and declared success for his play. It is more than success for the play; it was a corroboration of Mr. Jones' belief that Americans better appreciate and are more ready to receive serious drama than are their British brothers. It was proof that he had made no mistake in offering this, his latest play to New York before he gave it to London. And it was evidence strong and incontrovertible that playgoers in this country, at least, are hungry for genuine drama. The theme of The Hypocrites is the woman sinned against and sinning is a familiar figure in melodrama.

Manager Askin, of "The Umpire," rewards the lively "broilers" who play the game of football in that entertainment, by bestowing a prize of $5 each on the members of the side which scores the more points during the week. This is not done as an inspiration for more enthusiasm in the contest, since in that element it excels the "real thing," but simply the way of appreciation for a remarkable and difficult piece of work. In this connection it is interesting to note that in the first fortnight of its out-of-town tour "The Umpire" broke eight records for high receipts, most of them having been in the possession of Miss Viola Allen, whose phenomenal tour under Mr. Askin's management in "The Christian" and "In the Palace of the King," may be recalled.

"Two Orphans."

This afternoon at The Kentucky a revival of the old-time favorite "The Two Orphans" is presented. Years ago "The Two Orphans" was one of the best known plays on the American stage. "The Two Orphans" is originally a French novel dramatized and adapted for the stage. Miss Kate Claxton made the play famous by her clever impersonation of the blind girl, Louise. Elmer Walters has secured from Kate Claxton all the rights to reproduce this drama. It is without doubt one of the best dramas ever produced and of its moral tone none can take exceptions. The engagement closes with tonight's performance.

Fall Carnival.

On Monday the big fall labor carnival takes place at Wallace park. The Central Labor Union has invested about $1,500 in the enterprise and car loads of equipment for the various shows have arrived already. Contrasts with the shows, the management claims, are such that the bulk of the money stays in Paducah and they say they have the finest carnival outfit ever exhibited in Paducah. Their principal attractions is the Mount Pelee disaster, an elaborate fireworks display, employing the latest mechanical and explosive inventions to carry out the illusion.

Virtue triumphed, and vice, although having the upper hand for a while, was punished in the same old way in The Master Workman. Jay Hunt's latest melodrama, which was given its first presentation on one of the warmest nights of the summer. In spite of the terribly depressing weather the audience, especially those in the upper and warmer region of the theater, watched the play with interest and applauded the many strong speeches with great enthusiasm. The play deals with the question of capital and labor in an extremely conventional way.

Adelaide Thurston is convalescing from the effects of an operation for appendicitis at Isle Royer, Lake Superior. She is improving so rapidly that her manager expects to open her season in "The Girl from Out Yonder" on Sept. 25.

Recent bookings at The Kentucky are: "Phantom Detective," September 21; "Just Struck Town," September 25; Mrs. Leslie Carter's great piece, "Zaza," December 14.

Henrietta Grosman's season in "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" opened at Newburgh, N. Y., on Sept. 4. The opening had been set for Glens Falls on the day following.

Charles Grapewin is a popular star booked to appear at The Kentucky December 10.

Popular Tim Murphy comes to The Kentucky October 17.

The cost of such construction of said street shall be paid for by the property owners abutting or fronting thereon on both sides thereof to be apportioned to and assessed against the property and property owners abutting thereon on both sides thereof according to the number of front feet abutting thereon, except the city of Paducah shall pay the entire cost of all intersections of streets and public alleys, if any such there be.

Section 4. The contractor awarded the contract for the work herein provided for shall be paid only upon estimates furnished by the city engineer and approved by the board of public works in accordance with the terms of the contract made by the contractor awarded said contract and the city of Paducah for said work, and in no other way.

Special Notice
To Users of Wiss Shears

For many years this store has been selling Wiss Shears. Every time a pair was sold the customer was told "Now if these shears are not perfectly satisfactory, bring them back."

Next Monday their representative is going to call on us to take our order for another big shipment of shears and scissors, and at that time will "make good" any shears or scissors that have not been satisfactory in every way.

Now if you have a pair of "Wiss" Shears or Scissors that you have used and they are not giving perfect satisfaction, we want you to bring them to us Monday, September 10, and we will, without any red tape, give you another pair that will please you.

Their representative, Mr. W. L. Risley, who knows nothing but shears and scissors, has kindly consented to remain over with us one day (Monday) and give our customers an opportunity to see the great variety of shears and scissors made by his firm and will take great pleasure in giving his personal attention to all. We hope that the ladies especially will avail themselves of this opportunity.

We promise you satisfaction with Wiss Shears and Scissors, and we don't forget our promise.

In this connection it is interesting to note that in the first fortnight of its out-of-town tour "The Empire" broke eight records for high receipts, most of them having been in the possession of Miss Viola Allen, whose phenomenal tour under Mr. Askin's management in "The Christian" and "In the Palace of the King," may be recalled.

"Two Orphans." This afternoon at The Kentucky a revival of the old-time favorite "The Two Orphans" is presented. Years ago "The Two Orphans" was one of the best known plays on the American stage. "The Two Orphans" is originally a French novel, dramatized and adapted for the stage. Miss Kate Claxton made the play famous by her clever impersonation of the blind girl, Louise. Elmer Walters has secured from Kate Claxton all the rights to reproduce this drama. It is without doubt one of the best dramas ever produced and of its moral tone none can take exceptions. The engagement closes with tonight's performance.

Fall Carnival. On Monday the big fall labor carnival takes place at Wallace park. The Central Labor Union has invested about $1,500 in the enterprise and car loads of equipment for the various shows have arrived already. Contrasts with the shows, the management claims, are such that the bulk of the money stays in Paducah and they say they have the finest carnival outfit ever exhibited in Paducah. Their principal attractions is the Mount Pelee disaster, an elaborate fireworks display, employing the latest mechanical and explosive inventions to carry out the illusion.

Virtue triumphed, and vice, although having the upper hand for a while, was punished in the same old way in The Master Workman. Jay Hunt's latest melodrama, which was given its first presentation on one of the warmest nights of the summer. In spite of the terribly depressing weather the audience, especially those in the upper and warmer region of the theater, watched the play with interest and applauded the many strong speeches with great enthusiasm. The play deals with the question of capital and labor in an extremely conventional way.

Special Notice To Users of Wiss Shears

For many years this store has been selling Wiss Shears. Every time a pair was sold the customer was told "Now if these shears are not perfectly satisfactory, bring them back."

J. Wiss & Sons, who have been making their famous shears for sixty years, stand back of our guarantee. Next Monday their representative is going to call on us to take our order for another big shipment of shears and scissors, and at that time will "make good" any shears or scissors that have not been satisfactory in every way.

Now if you have a pair of "Wiss" Shears or Scissors that you have used and they are not giving perfect satisfaction, we want you to bring them to us Monday, September 10, and we will, without any red tape, give you another pair that will please you.

Their representative, Mr. W. L. Risley, who knows nothing but shears and scissors, has kindly consented to remain over with us one day (Monday) and give our customers an opportunity to see the great variety of shears and scissors made by his firm and will take great pleasure in giving his personal attention to all. We hope that the ladies especially will avail themselves of this opportunity.

We promise you satisfaction with Wiss Shears and Scissors, and we don't forget our promise.
